DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1,2,4,5 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Callihan et al.

Callihan discloses a cementing shoe having a housing 2 for disposal at the end of a tubing string. The housing has an enlarged diameter (opposite 26) near its lower end. A cement shoe 10 is disposed in the housing and is drillable. As to claim 2, the cement shoe has a drillable nose portion 41. As to claim 4, the drillable material is constructed to become dislodged when drilled. As to claim 5, voids are formed in the drillable material. As to claim 10, a valve 34 is provided.

Claims 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Gano et al.

Gano discloses, in fig. 7, a first tubing 282 having an enlarged lower end and a second tubing 266 that is to be expanded into the first tubing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gano et al in view of Simpson.

Art Unit: 3672

Gano is considered to disclose all of the claimed features except for the expansion member being a hydraulically operated expansion member having expanding means. Simpson discloses an expander that has rollers that are pressed outwardly by hydraulic pressure. It would have been considered obvious to replace the expander of Gano with the expander of Simpson since they are equivalent parts for performing equivalent functions.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments, see the response page 8, filed 2/21/02, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 17 and 18 under 102(e) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Gano in view of Simpson.

Applicant's arguments filed 2/21/02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Gano does not disclose a tubular housing having an enlarged diameter lower end and a drillable cement shoe in the housing. The fact that Callihan deals with replacing a float shoe with another float shoe is not material. The finished product shown in Fig. 5 is a drillable cement shoe that has a housing 2 having an enlarged diameter near its lower end. This is true because the housing has a decreased diameter at its end. Cement shoe 10 is clearly in the housing and retained there by slips engaging the enlarged diameter end. The instant rejected claims only call for a housing having an enlarged diameter near the lower end with a drillable cement shoe in the housing. Callihan clearly meets these claim limitation.

Art Unit: 3672

With respect to Gano, applicant argues that Gano does not disclose a connection having a first tubular with an enlarged diameter and a second tubular having an expanded tubular in contact with the first tubular whereby the diameter of the first tubular is not expanded and the expanded inside diameters are substantially the same. Looking at Fig. 7 and related description, clearly the solid lines showing the expanded condition meet these claim limitations.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 11,12 and 19-24 are allowed.

Claims 6-9,15 and 16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
